

LOYOLA

1974-75

WARRIOR SOCCER 1974

It wasn't difficult for Loyola soccer coach Harry Hus to pinpoint the key ingredient in the Warriors' successful march to the 1973 Canadian Intercollegiate Soccer Championship.

"Guts", Hus said simply, after Loyola edged the University of Alberta Golden Bears 4 - 3 in a game which was decided by penalty kicks when the teams were tied 1 - 1 after 120 minutes of fast-paced action.

The National Title was one that had eluded the Warriors for several seasons. Now that they've achieved the pinnacle of success on the intercollegiate level, what goals could possibly be ahead for Coach Hus' charges?

"Although we won the National Crown", Hus replied, "we didn't have a complete team last year. There were several weaknesses, especially in the defensive ranks. We hope to improve those areas this year."

Leading the way for the Warriors will be Most Valuable Player and QUAA high-scorer Mark Sosnowski, National team member Jim Corsi and goal-keeper Wally Smith. Smith, who will miss part of the '74 campaign while with Canada's National team, is regarded by Hus as the outstanding goaler in college soccer.

One factor in the Warriors' favor is that Loyola has been selected as the site of the 1974 Nationals. On Nov. 8, 9, and 10th of this year, Warrior fans will be treated to the best intercollegiate soccer this nation has to offer.

"No one has ever won the Nationals two years in a row", stated Hus. "If we get past league foes Sir George and Laval, we should have a shot at it." After last season's performance, no one is doubting him.

INTRA-SCHOOL PROGRAM

MEN'S INTRAMURALS:

The Men's Intramural program at Loyola is designed with the objective of providing for the needs and interests of every student on campus, regardless of skill level. Beginners as well as the more experienced competitors are encouraged to participate. There's a place for everyone.

Team sports offered on a league basis include Touch Football, Basketball, Broomball and Hockey. In addition, tournaments are conducted throughout the year in badminton, golf, tennis and table tennis.

At year-end an intramural "Team of the Year" and "Athlete of the Year" are chosen by the Men's Intramural Committee.

WOMEN'S INTRAMURALS:

The women's intramural program offers a variety of sports for those students who are looking for action at a fun level. The name of the game is participation rather than winning. Intramurals are designed with the casual competitor in mind.

For the individualists there is a slate of tournament sports that includes golf and tennis in the fall, and badminton and table tennis during the winter. For the team sport advocates there is league competition in softball, basketball, and broomball before Christmas. January kicks off with the volleyball and hockey leagues and winter carnival time features one day tournament action in ringette and European handball.

Interested women may sign up for any or all of the intramural activities. The only prerequisite is enthusiasm and the desire to PARTICIPATE MORE IN '74.
